QUALITY CUISINE AT JUNIOR HIGH—Top city and school officials Friday reported they had no knowledge of the practice of non-school personnel entering the rear door of the Bay St. Louis Junior High School cafeteria and being served lunches. Four occupants emerged from these three vehicles which arrived at the school at lunchtime Thursday, and entered a rear door of the cafeteria. They removed eight food-laden trays among them, apparently neglecting to return the trays. The Echo has received complaints, in addition, that boxes of food were removed from the cafeteria on the day Thanksgiving turkey was served. The officials said any improper practices at the cafeteria will be stopped immediately. (Echo staff photos)

Lott elected to Republican post

Congressman Trent Lott will provide South Mississippi with some direct input into national legislative initiatives through a new position as chairman of the House Republican Research Committee. Lott's office reported.

Lott, who was elected last month without opposition to a fourth term in the U.S. House from Mississippi's Fifth Congressional District which includes Hancock County, was elected overwhelmingly by his Republican colleagues to the leadership position for the 96th Congress.

He was elected on the first ballot over two other candidates as Republicans organized for the new Congress which will be seated in January, 1979.

"As chairman of the Research Committee, I intend to propose new strategies and concepts to push legislation that will have a meaningful impact on Mississippi and the nation," Lott said.

From his post, the congressman will have direct influence on the preparation of fact sheets, position papers and detailed information on pending legislative issues.

The Research Committee chairmanship is generally recognized as the fifth ranking of nine leadership positions among Republican members of Congress.

The committee utilizes task forces to gather data to be used not only for debates on the House floor but also by individual members of Congress as valued reference material.

Alarm over judgement payment described as 'scare tactics'

By LESLIE WILLIAMS

Pascagoula Attorney John Hunter who represents the James Warner III Estate, said Friday night last week's media blitz on payment of the $485,000 Warner case judgement against the City of Bay St. Louis amounted to "scare tactics."

"I never said we would use a writ of garnishment to obtain the money," added Hunter.

Attorneys for the city obtained an injunction Thursday from Chancery Court Judge John Morris of Biloxi to block a reported attempt by Warner's heirs to secure payment of the judgement when a 30-day stay granted the city by federal courts expired Friday.

Talks begin Monday

Commission eyes Stennis operator

By RICH ADAMS

Preliminary negotiations between a Hancock Port and Harbor Commission committee and an unnamed prospective fixed-base operator will begin Monday afternoon in an effort to replace TransAm International at Stennis Field, Commission Executive Director Wilson W. Webre said Friday.

The three-man committee representing the county in the talks will consist of Commission members Dave Motonhoff, Ronnie Artigues and James DeBlanc, Webre added.

The negotiations are to follow a Commission recommendation to be presented Monday morning to Hancock County Board of Supervisors to evict TransAm International, fixed-base operators at Stennis International Airport in Hancock County.

According to Webre, the eviction is a

Turner elected

Marine Concrete

vice president

A. J. Turner, newly elected vice president of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, is also newly elected to the vice presidency of Marine Concrete Structures Inc.

Don Payne, Marine Concrete president, said Turner will be replaced as general manager of the company's Mississippi operations at Port Bienville in Hancock County.

Payne said Turner will relocate to the company's headquarters in New Orleans and will be responsible for coordinating production of the various divisions of the company.

Turner said he will retain supervisory jurisdiction over the Port Bienville yard and will spend considerable time in Hancock County. The new Chamber vice president said he will continue in that position.

Marine Concrete Structures is one of the largest builders of concrete gravity structures having built some 400 such structures for use by the oil and gas industry in the Gulf of Mexico.

Hunter questioned the legality of the injunction since he claims never to have said he would seek to obtain payment of the judgement to the harm of the City of Bay St. Louis.

Hunter said he called city attorneys early last week, asking them to submit a "reasonable" method or plan for payment of the judgement.

The city attorneys said they would confer with the City Council on the matter Wednesday, Hunter said.

Thus far, Hunter said he has not received a proposal for total payment of the judgement in less than a four year period. Hunter said he would prefer the judgement be paid in less than four years or as soon as possible. Hunter said he has no plans to put city firemen, police and other public employees out of work.

But added, he still will consider a federal garnishment as an alternative of obtaining the money issued in the judgement if a "reasonable" plan for payment is not submitted to him.

Hunter declined to elaborate on who he feels is responsible for generating the so-called scare tactics.

The wave of publicity followed the Wednesday night council meeting when city attorneys reported to the council there was a possibility expiration of the federal stay would bring a demand for payment.

The city attorneys, George E. Morse of Pass Christian and Walter James Phillips of Bay St. Louis, felt the injunction from state court might be one.

"legal technicality."

The action is necessary, Webre explained, because Mel Anderson, owner of TransAm, has been missing and presumed dead since a reported air crash in South America since Oct. 14.

"This (the eviction) is a necessary step. There is no proof Mel Anderson is dead, and we are opening negotiations

CITIZENS EXPRESS FEELINGS - At least one flag flew at half mast in Bay St. Louis Friday as news circulated payment was imminent on the judgement against the City of Bay St. Louis in the James Warner case. Judge Harold Cox in the U.S. District Court in Biloxi awarded a $375,000 judgment against the city, a judgment which, with interest, now edges toward $500,000 and, "threatens to bankrupt a little city still struggling to recover from the disaster of Hurricane Camille," said the householder on Highland Drive. "Citizens of Bay St. Louis, normally mild-mannered and peace-loving people, have expressed bitterness and raised a number of questions both concerning the justice of the decision and the length of time the case has dragged on," she continued. "In the first place, Was the decision a act of justice?" And secondly, "was it in any way tempered with mercy?"

"My flag went up to the top - where it will always wave - then back to half-mast," explained Joe Pilet, "and down when rain clouds and dark skies threatened - it seemed as if the very heavens wept over the plight of our little town." (Staff Photo—Leslie Williams)

Holiday depression syndrome lessened by careful spending

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ms. Norine Barnes, who recently resigned after some five years as Hancock County Home Economist, has been appointed Mississippi Extension Service area consumer management specialist for Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties. In that position, Ms. Barnes will supply the Sea Coast Echo with weekly articles on money management matters. Below is her first article, a discussion of the financial aspects of the Holiday Season depression syndrome. Her new address is 4646 W Beach Blvd., Suite 1-E, Biloxi, 39531.

HOLIDAY MONEY MANAGEMENT

By NORINE BARNES

The holiday season, they tell us, is the happiest time of the year. Full of joy, tree decoration parties, traditional family meals, the excitement of last-minute shopping, and the delicious anticipation that comes with gift giving.

Never mentioned is heightened suicide rates and crippling debts acquired by many people at this time.

Suicide attempts and depression-sparked breakdowns peak during December and January, and for every such case, hundreds of others suffer from milder forms of depression during the holiday season.

Holiday depression can hit anyone: mothers who feel pressured to create happy holidays for their families, parents who can't afford expensive gifts for their children, or members of large families who dread the return to the nest.

Hardest hit are single parents and those who are alone, because their holidays contrast sharply with the popular idea of big, loving, family-oriented celebrations.

This media image of the holidays as a loving and happy time contributes to the holiday depression syndrome. Many people think they are unique in their unhappiness.

This image intensifies the practical problems of single parents. It is enormously difficult for the single

Santa, Rudolph, Frosty to visit Hancock hospital

The Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis will sponsor a Christmas program at 7 p.m., Dec. 21, complete with Santa Claus, Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer, and Frosty the Snowman.

According to a hospital spokesman, a living nativity scene will also be presented during the event.

Gifts will be distributed for children, the spokesman added.

Avoid making Christmas gifts credit burdens

Christmas, traditionally known as the season of love, can become a credit burden for 1979.

"Do not be tempted to charge or use extended credit when buying gifts," cautions Dr. Julia Barnes, home management specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Check your purchasing list to the "bare bones" and avoid debt," continues Dr. Barnes.

"Begin by making your shopping list early and deciding how much money from the family budget can be allocated for gifts. Then, force yourself to keep purchases within the allocated limit."

A 16-year-old St. Stanislaus student died Tuesday of injuries suffered Sunday in an auto accident on the Kiln-DeLisle Road some eight miles from the Diamondhead Fire Station.

The youth was trapped in his vehicle until the Gulfport Fire Department's Rescue Unit could free him with its 'Jaws of Life' power rescue tools.

Emergency personnel are reluctant to turn such a tragedy into an 'I told you so' situation, but it is virtually impossible to ignore the facts - we will never know if the youth's life might not have been saved had he been released from the wrecked vehicle sooner.

The Hancock County Firemen's Association is still short of enough money to purchase the first 'Jaws of Life' unit for this county.

In honor of the memory of that young man whose life might have been saved, and for the sake of the next person to be trapped in a wrecked vehicle on our roads, we must fulfill our firemen's need for proper equipment.

Warner Case...

method of blocking Charles Morris of Biloxi, administrator of the Warner Estate, who the attorneys said might attempt to collect the total judgement by federal 'Writ of Garnishment' either Friday or Monday, Dec. 18.

A writ of garnishment would allow the administrator on the behalf of the estate to collect the money from city depositories, namely Hancock Bank and Merchants Bank in Bay St. Louis, and also obtain title to property owned by the city to pay for the $485,000 judgement, said Bay St. Louis Attorney Morse.

This in turn, said Morse, would jeopardize the payment of salaries to Bay St. Louis policeman, fireman, teachers and other city employees.

Bay St. Louis was granted the injunction from Judge Morris Jr. of the Chancery Court, a state court, on the grounds that the federal U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals decision to allow garnishment of Bay St. Louis bank accounts to be used as payment for the $485,000 judgement to the Warner Estate "would have a disruptive and irreparable effect on the affairs of Bay St. Louis" and also because the $485,000 judgement is still on appeal, stated Morse.

Morse added that payment of the judgement and means by which the $450,000 will be paid to the Warner Estate is still under appeal in the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals.

But, said Morse, the plaintiff's attorneys' contest the $450,000 judgement is not on appeal because a supersedeas bond has not been filed, therefore no appeal exists, because a supersedeas bond must be filed before an appeal can be obtained.

Morse on the other hand, contends that Chapter 9 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act exempts Bay St. Louis from filing a supersedeas bond; hence the federal judgement is still on appeal.

"A supersedeas bond," said Morse, "means some bonding company comes in and says, for a premium, will guarantee the payment of this $485,000 judgement, if and when it becomes final. If the city doesn't pay it."

"Such a bond is extremely difficult to get in the amount we are talking about," said Morse, "and the city may not be able to get it at all. A premium costs $9,000 a year during pending legislation and we probably wouldn't be able to get a supersedeas bond without collateral. This makes the idea of acquiring a supersedeas bond totally out of the question."

Morse said the Chancery Court injunction will prevent the administrator for the Warner Estate from collecting the $485,000 judgement until a judgement is issued by U.S. District Court.

Morse said in his opinion, the judgement issued by U.S. District Court Judge Harold Cox making execution of the judgement permissible after December 4, is not the final judgement.

Morse said he and Phillips have submitted a plan to the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of appeals asking the court to allow Bay St. Louis to pay the original $375,000 judgement issued by U.S. District Judge Walter Nixon Jr. August 1975 instead of the $485,000 judgement which includes interest accrued on the judgement while Bay St. Louis has been fighting the judgement.

The plan also calls for the Warner Estate to be paid the $375,000 judgement over a six year period by yearly installments of $70,000 obtained from a five mill tax levy on Bay St. Louis property owners.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett said Friday he will ask State Representative J.P. Compreta of Hancock County to introduce a bill in January in the Legislature requesting permission to levy a special half-cent sales tax in Bay St. Louis to pay the judgement.

City Councilman James Thriffiley said the special sales tax if passed by the legislature would provide $150,000 a year or $12,500 a month.

This way, continued Thriffiley, the Warner Estate could receive money in monthly increments, and the judgement would be completely paid in about three years.

Thriffiley said he has faith the "wisdom of the court will not permit 10,000 innocent people to be punished by a writ of garnishment."

James Warner III, a New Orleans teenager, was paralyzed after diving off a municipal pier under construction in Bay St. Louis in 1969.

A U.S. District Court judgement in August, 1975, awarded Warner $375,000, holding the city negligent in the diving accident.

Nativity scene donated to City-County Library

By JOE PILET

As their Christmas greeting to the Community, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pritchett, of Esplanade Avenue in Bay St. Louis have placed on display their exceptionally fine Nativity Scene.

Through many years it has been the custom of the Pritchets to erect this manger scene within their home, but this year they expressed a desire to place it where it might be enjoyed by all patrons of the Library.

Features of the statuettes are delicately painted. Many of them have been re-touched by Mrs. Pritchett, whose well known art work is signed "C. Mills."

Mrs. Pritchett said, "Bob and I have decided to give this creche to the library where it may be permanently displayed during the Holy Season. It is our way of expressing appreciation for our culture center."

In accepting for the library,

Librarian Prima Wusnick said, "This generous and thoughtful gift is deeply appreciated and will add so much meaning during Christmas season now and in years to come."

Tigers slated in Coast Holiday Classic

By RICH ADAMS

A last minute change will enable the Bay High Tigers to participate in the 32-team Gulf Coast Jaycees Holiday Basketball Classic to take place Dec. 27-29, Hancock

North Central head coach Roland Ladner said Friday. Ladner, coordinator of the event, said Bay High will play Oak Grove Miss. on Dec. 27 at 10:30 a.m. in Tiger Stadium. Bay High was not originally on the slate for the event, but the last minute change places them in the competition.

Carroll, La. was originally scheduled to play in the slot, but have dropped out, Ladner said.

"They needed a team. A team dropped out, and we were the most likely team to choose," said Tiger skipper Jerry Spell.

"It's good for the kids to play in a tournament like this."

The more we play, the more we improve," he continued.

"We're looking forward to playing in this one. Pass Christian beat Oak Grove, and we're looking for a good game," the coach said.

efforts of coach Ladner, who planned and organized the tournament in one year.

The field is composed of 32 teams from five states, including Hancock North Central, Pass Christian, and now the Tigers.

Semi-final games will be played in Harrison Central and Gulfport gyms, and the finals will be played Dec. 29 at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum in Biloxi.

Poole resigns as Rock coach

Bill Poole, head football and track coach at St. Stanislaus, announced he will resign his position as head coach at the end of the present school year.

Poole's resignation will end a three-year term as helmsman of Rock-A-Chaw football players and track and field at the school.

He has been with St. Stanislaus as a teacher for nine years. No announcement has been made whether Poole plans to remain at St. Stanislaus as a teacher after teams prior to coming to St. Stanislaus.

Poole skippered his 1978 football squad to a 6-4 season record, tying Vancleave for a third spot position in the Pascagoula River Conference.

Work to eat program affects stamp holders

Able-bodied food stamp recipients aged 18 to 60 in 14 pilot areas will be required to "work off" the value of the food stamps they receive, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman has announced.

In signing final regulations for the pilot "workfare" projects, Foreman said that cities, counties or other political subdivisions that already sponsor public service employment programs or that have demonstrated an ability to operate such a program are eligible to conduct the projects.

The Food Stamp Act of 1977 specified that the workfare projects be carried out in one urban and one rural area in each of the seven administrative regions of the department's Food and Nutrition Service.

The projects will be administered jointly by the Department and the U.S. Department of Labor, and are scheduled to begin in the Spring in conjunction with new food stamp eligibility rules.

Potential sponsors must submit an application within the next 45 days if they want to operate a workfare pilot project, Foreman said.

She said that the department is actively seeking cities, counties, and other political subdivisions that might participate. It is up to the sponsor to determine what type of jobs food stamp recipients will do, Foreman added.

Foreman also said the Agriculture department will reimburse workfare sponsors for the costs of keeping records needed to evaluate the program.

The Agriculture and Labor departments will evaluate the costs, benefits and operational feasibility of the program and submit a report to Congress by October, 1980, Foreman said.

Basic administrative costs borne by sponsors in running workfare operations will not be federally reimbursed, she said.

Under workfare, employable persons 18 to 60 in families receiving food stamps will be required to work off their household's food stamps if their household's total earned income is less than the value of its food stamps. Workers will receive the equivalent of the federal minimum wage rate to pay for food stamps.

The number of hours a workfare participant will be required to work will be calculated by subtracting earned income from the dollar value of the food stamps the family receives and dividing the remainder by the federal minimum wage.

Participants must have been unable to find employment within 30 days after registering for work.

Refusal to comply with workfare requirements will result in suspension of food stamp benefits.

Political subdivisions want to sponsor a project should apply to: Deputy Administrator, Family Nutrition Programs, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, 500 12th St., S.W., Washington, D.C. 20250.

"Security has also been recently been upgraded, not only with three full-time personnel but with the addition of a squad car," said Hammill.

"The new patrol car is fully equipped and will aid the guards in their supervision of the campus and in emergency situations."

The car, which was purchased with the aid of a federal grant from the Law Enforcement Agency which allocated 55 per cent of the total price of $3,100.

PRC had attempted to acquire the grant for the past five years, however, the money was available. The new patrol car was put into use Nov. 1.

County Agent's Notes

by John Smith

CROP ROTATION

As you plan your 1979 crop production program, you may want to take a long look at crop rotation.

Rotating row crops with other crops such as legumes will interrupt disease cycles, and reduce insect, weed and nematode problems. Despite these benefits, the practice has been "eliminated from many Mississippi farms because of the availability of nitrogen fertilizer and conversion to a single crop system."

However, with the low levels of organic matter in many fields, herbicide buildup and other management problems, producers are "relearning the benefits of crop rotation."

Crop rotation can help control tough problem weeds. Broadleaf weeds, such as cocklebur, morningglory and coffeeweed, can be fairly easily controlled in corn and grain sorghum; these weeds are not as easily controlled in soybeans.

Corn and grain sorghum in rotation with soybeans can greatly reduce the problem of soybean cyst nematodes.

Crop rotation will also give slight to moderate yield increases. If you want to increase yields and reduce management problems, consider crop rotation in 1979.

KEEP PESTICIDES OUT OF MILK

You dairymen need to take extra precautions to protect your milk supplies from pesticide contamination this winter. Hay or silage that contains pesticides should not be fed to dairy cattle.

Also, you should not harvest feed crops that have been treated with pesticides until the recommended waiting period is up.

For more information on pesticides and milk supplies, ask your County Agent for a copy of the dairy guideline entitled "Keep Pesticides Out of Milk."

CROP RODENTS

Cool weather often drives rats and mice into buildings. These pests are especially a problem in buildings containing stored feed and seed supplies.

You can stop these pests by using baits containing anti-coagulants. These materials break down the animal's tissue and cause it to bleed to death internally.

To be effective, small amounts of the anti-coagulants must be eaten for three to four consecutive days. You need to check bait stations daily and refill as needed.

When using anti-coagulants, be sure to follow label instructions and keep them out of reach of children and house pets.

FARMWEEK

The Dec. 18 edition of "Farmweek" will feature an in-depth look at the year in review.

Farmweek host Bruce Johnson, Extension Director Dr. W.M. Bost, an Agricultural Leaders and Farmers will discuss agricultural prospects for 1979.

Farmweek can be seen each Monday at 7:30 p.m. and Tuesday morning at 7 a.m. on the Mississippi Educational Television Network.

1978 FARM WRAP UP

Value of farm production in Mississippi totaled a record $2,495 billion in 1978, according to preliminary estimates released by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service (MCES).

"This is the third consecutive year that state farmers have reached a record level in value of products grown," said Dr. W.M. Bost, director, MCES, addressing about 1,000 farmers and agribusiness leaders attending the annual III by '83.

III by '83 is a long-range agricultural development program initiated by MCES in 1974. Its goal is a value of farm production of $3 billion annually by 1983.

Farm profits in Mississippi in 1978, too, were above those of 1977. Net farm income for all Mississippi farmers in 1977 was about $450 million.

Current estimates this year point to net farm income of about $557 million. Even though net farm income is higher, it's still below the record level of 1973.

And when the inflation experienced in consumer goods is taken into account, it's still substantially below the needed level.

"We commend Mississippi's 78,000 farmers, who, in spite of drought during critical parts of the growing season, continued to move forward in developing their farm production and marketing programs," Dr. Bost added.

"We have some of the finest farms in the nation. Those who have put a total farm management package together and have survived the very trying times of the past four years will no doubt find farming more financially rewarding in the future."

A turn-around in beef prices at the farm, plus substantial increases in value of forestry, food grains, and poultry and eggs, were the primary factors in the $248 million increase this year.

Here's a brief summary prepared by Dr. Bob Williams, agricultural economist, and other MCES personnel, which shows how the major farm enterprises fared in 1978.

Soybeans, the leader in value, contributed $512 million to the farm till, up from $498 million in 1977. The record harvest of 82 million bushels was from an average of $36.70 per hundredweight in 1977 to as much as $64 in 1978.

After several years of decline, hog production increased both in 1977 and 1978, and prices also remained good.

The turn-around in the cattle prices produced the biggest gainer in value of farm production in 1978. Prices for calves increased from an average of $36.70 per hundredweight in 1977 to as much as $64 in 1978.

And when the inflation experienced in consumer goods is taken into account, it's still substantially below the needed level.

Poultry and egg products added $370 million in farm value, up from $341 million in 1977. Broiler production exceeded 1977 levels by about five percent, with growers sending about 268 million birds to market.

Broiler prices were about 20 percent higher. Egg production declined about five percent.

Value of food grain crops increased substantially, reaching $81 million this year, compared to $49 million in 1977. Rice production increased about 100,000 acres, up about 90 percent less than in 1977. Wheat prices were higher in 1977 while rice prices were down.

Horticultural crops experienced a year of extremes in 1978. Several nurseries suffered cold damage last winter, and then the drought last summer cut into production in many states.

Prices for some crops such as watermelons, sweet potatoes and cabbage were more favorable than in past years. The total value of horticultural crops in 1978 was $68 million, up from $63 million the year before.

Rounding out the top 10 farm enterprises in the state was catfish. This industry experienced rapid growth the past year, with an estimated 4,000 acres of new ponds being developed. There are 22,150 acres of ponds in production of farm-raised catfish in Mississippi, making it the nation's largest producer of farm-raised catfish. Farm value of farm-raised catfish was $45.1 million, up from $37 million in 1977.

"There's no doubt in my mind that farmers who follow good management practices can not only survive in farming but they can also prosper; if they get a little cooperation from the weather and in the marketplace," said Dr. Bost.

"The Cooperative Extension Service is dedicated to helping farmers strengthen agriculture, and a strong state economy."

(Next week, Dr. Bob Williams offers his forecast for the 1979 crop year in Mississippi.)

Mid East soybean markets showing 'steady growth'

The next five years will see a sharp and steady growth of soybean markets in the Middle East, according to Ed Quinones, Regional Director of Middle East Programs for the American Soybean Association.

Quinones, who heads a market development staff of three headquartered in Madrid, Spain, was the lead speaker in a two-day conference on Agricultural Trading Opportunities for the Middle East, held in St. Louis on Oct. 17, 1978.

The conference was sponsored by the American Soybean Association in cooperation with the Foreign Agricultural Service, the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association and the Mid-America Arab Chamber of Commerce, Chicago, Illinois.

"We've already seen tremendous growth in this market which last year used over $100 million worth of U.S. soybeans and soybean products," Quinones told an audience of over 150 soybean producers, processors and representatives of the livestock and feed industries.

BUYING PLANTING SEED

Buying certified seed when planting wheat or oats for grain will assure quality and freedom from problem weeds. Planting grain from an elevator that has not been tested is a good way to pick up weed problems or get seed that germinates poorly, caution Extension Service agronomists.

LOUISIANA-Demand for pecans was light in Louisiana and prices were lower.

The harvest was finishing up in most areas and quality of the nuts declined.

Prices paid to growers per pound were for Native type mostly 60 to 65 cents and for improved varieties mostly 75 to 85 cents.

TEXAS-In Texas demand for pecans declined and prices were lower.

Harvesting nearly complete in some areas and the rest of the crop is expected to be gathered in the next several weeks.

Prices paid to growers per pound for lots of less than 1,000 lbs were for Natives 65 to 70 cents and improved varieties 70 to 85 cents.

FOOD for THOUGHT

An Agricultural Concern Of Interest to Everyone

How people prefer to live can help determine food costs. Current living trends are toward smaller households with fewer members.

On a per capita basis, food costs are higher for small household units as compared to larger ones. Smaller units tend to buy more prepared convenience foods or restaurant meals. These two marketing factors have a strong influence on overall food costs.

Presented by this publication and Sperry New Holland to promote a better understanding of the modern farm to family food supply system.

MILK PRODUCTION

NOVEMBER, 1978
NOVEMBER MILK

Production of milk in Mississippi during November is estimated at 61 million pounds, the Mississippi Crop and Livestock Reporting Service announced today.

This is five percent below a year earlier.

There were 103,000 milk cows on farms during the month, seven percent below a year earlier. Milk production per cow averaged 590 pounds, 15 pounds above November 1977.

UNITED STATES

November milk production totaled 9.4 billion pounds, down fractionally from November 1977. Accumulated production for January-November of 1978 was 113 billion pounds, down one percent from last year but two percent above the same period in 1976.

Production per cow averaged 869 pounds, 3 pounds more than a year earlier, and 33 pounds more than November 1976.

Total milk cows averaged 10.8 million head, off one percent from last year.

The November milk-feed price ratio was 1.86, unchanged from last month but 10 points above October 1977.

FESCUE AND LEGUMES

Cattlemen who have recently seeded clover with fescue should not graze these crops before spring, advise Extension Service agronomists. Grazing earlier will damage the stand.

As Christmas draws nearer, more holiday specials are filling Mississippi ETV's schedule. On Saturday, December 23, viewers at home for the holidays may choose from eight Christmas specials on ETV.

The 1938 motion picture release of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" will be broadcast at 1 p.m., Saturday, December 23. The film stars Reginald Owen and Gene Lockhart.

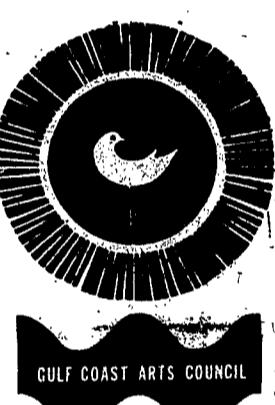

For those who missed "Sing We Noel" on Thursday night, it will be rebroadcast at 2:30 p.m., Saturday, December 23. The Mormon Youth Symphony and Chorus perform a variety of Christmas songs in Salt Lake City's Mormon Tabernacle.

Also, for those who missed "Simple Gifts: Six Episodes for Christmas" on Sunday night, it too will be rebroadcast on Saturday at 4 p.m. The program illustrates unique views of the holiday season as perceived by famous writers, artists and animators. A work by Maurice Sendak opens the program.

At 5, the Houston Harp Ensemble presents a selection of Christmas carols on "Christmas Festival of Harps."

"Percussion Noel" at 5:30 features Christmas music performed entirely with percussion instruments by the West Virginia University Percussion Ensemble.

The rebroadcast of "Christmastime with Mister Rogers," an hour-long special of music, dance and fantasy for the entire family, starring Fred Rogers and guests, is scheduled for 6. The program was first seen last year.
